Goodwill offers free, safe, easy and environmentally responsible recycling of computers and electronics. Computers are either disassembled and recycled or are refurbished to be sold at Goodwill stores. Donating your computer not only helps keep e-waste out of landfills and helps families buy used electronic products at an affordable price, but brings the Power of Work to someone in your community. Goodwill is not responsible or liable for personal data on hard drives or other storage media. Newer computers have the hard drives wiped exceeding Department of Defense standards and the hard or other storage media. Newer computers have the hard drives wiped exceeding Department of Defense standards and the hard drives of older computers are destroyed, but ultimately Goodwill cannot take responsibility for confidential information. If you wish to remove data before donating, a number of free services are available online that will completely erase hard drives. PA DEP Permit No. WMGR081D011
